Early Settlement

The records of the early years in the town of Norway are so meagre that we labor under a great difficulty in determining the exact date and other facts concerning the early settlements in town. We are indebted to the Noyes History and to the Centennial History of Norway and hereby make acknowledgement of the same. From there and other sources we learn that without doubt the first white men to come into the territory of Norway with any intention of settling were Jonas Stevens, George Leslie and Amos Hobbs. These men came here to take up their lots in 1785. The year before this they had come here along the shore of Penseewassee Pond and along the streams entering into it on a hunting and trapping expedition. This time they saw the magnificent features of the territory into which they were venturing. The settlement alluded to above was the result of their journey. They built a log camp near Great Pond and fell trees on a small area near the place where the first house in town was built. At this point, Joseph Stevens began the erection of his humble abode in the pine forests of Oxford that was yet to be. In March of the following year George Leslie, Jonas Hobbs brought their families from Gray to Paris to the houses of William and Daniel Stowell.

The history of Norway by Lapham states: "they came to Norway crossing the brook near where Horne's tannery now stands, on a pine log, to about where Stephen Hatch now lives; thence through where the village now stands to a little above where George Cole lives; then crossing the stream to the west side, on a log; thence up near the ice-house is, and thence in a canoe up to their landing."

We learn that Joseph Stevens in the month of May 1786 brought his family from William Stowell's house in Paris to his recently erected cabin above mentioned. His family was as follows: Himself and wife and children, Daniel, Jonas, Amy and Apphia an infant.

Amos Hobbs came here in the following June and removed his family in with Joseph Stevens. The trees were felled, junked, piled and burned to make way for the traps. Amos Hobbs built his house about forty-five rods west of the house later owned by James Crockett. Jonas Stevens built his abode near the house later occupied by Amos Grover. George Leslie erected his cabin about ten or a dozen rods west of the first county road in Norway and on land later owned by Benjamin Tucker.

The next settler was Jeremiah Hobbs who came here in August or September 1786 and settled on the Frank A. Danforth place.

Nathaniel Stevens came this same summer or fall and settled on a lot near the center of the town. Nathan Noble came here not far from 1788 and located on the W. O. Perry place. His family came the following spring, 1789. The year 1793 brought Joel Stevens, a brother of Joseph Stevens, and he settled on the Andrew Mills place. The above presents a brief account of the first settlers of Norway. After the forests began to ring with the axes of the above hardy venturers into them, the settlement became rapid. The following are all of Norway's early settlers and we give the list as accurately as it is possible at this late day to give it. The names follow:

Samuel Ames, Moses Abbott, Samuel Andrews, William Beal, Anthony Bennett, Nathaniel Bennett, Ephraim Briggs, Peter Buck, Levi Bartlett, Rufus Bartlett, Josiah Bartlett, William Bartlett, Tilden Bartlett, Nathaniel Bancroft. ## Military Matters

The military history of the town of Norway is a source of just pride to her every citizen. Never has the country or State issued its call for aid but this sturdy community of still more sturdy men has responded unreservedly.

The dark clouds of war had settled over the North American continent and the Revolution was practically ended before Joseph Stevens had penetrated the forest of this town and sent the smoke curling upward from the fire of his humble log cabin. But there were several among these rugged settlers who were in the service in that memorable struggle before coming to Norway. We give herewith the names as accurately as we can find them:

THE SCHOOL SYSTEM OF NORWAY

Norway has always pointed with pride to the educational facilities offered the children within her borders. From a very early date in the history of the town, an Academy was maintained here. This school, by name, the Norway Liberal Institute, incorporated in 1847, was a fitting school for future citizens, not only from this town, but from various sections of old Oxford County. Graduates have filled exalted positions in all the walks of life, and the alumni of Norway Liberal Institute, and its successor, the present school, are a source of pride to the town, and models for the emulation of present pupils. The common schools of the town were well and faithfully supported, and Norway was among the first towns in the State to comply with the requirements necessary to securing aid for a free high school. The present excellent system of schools is the result of a steady growth, noticeable and rapid for the last fifteen years.

The village schools have been entirely remodelled since then, and now, with the primary schools, for the first two grades, and each grade above the second, in a room by itself, with a high school taught by three teachers, each of whom is a college graduate and an experienced teacher, and with rural schools conducted so far as practicable along the lines of the best graded schools. Norway offers to her people opportunities for securing an education second to none among towns of similar size throughout the State.

For four years the town has had the services of a professional superintendent; the schools have been graded more carefully; teachers employed solely for fitness; modern methods and text books introduced; a carefully elaborated course of study furnished to guide the instructors; and the promotion of pupils from grade to grade into the high school made dependent upon their proficiency as evidenced by careful examinations. Of the present teaching force of twenty-four, three are college graduates, six are graduates of Normal schools, five have taken courses in Normal schools, and among the others are trained teachers who would not suffer in comparison or competition with teachers of their grades, let the latter be chosen where they may.

Today as always during the hundred years of its history, the town of Norway is proud of its schools; proud but not satisfied, for today as always her school authorities are ready to introduce that which has been proved superior matters and methods to assist the rising generations of her sons and daughters.

Church Account

The church history of the town of Norway resolves itself into a history of the different denominations. This we give briefly in the following lines:

BAPTIST

The First Baptist Church in this town was organized in 1806, and the first settled pastor was Rev.

John Wogg. The first church edifice was a former Universalist House moved on to a lot of land given by Henry Rust. The date was 1829. On December 31, 1889 on Cottage street the new Baptist church was dedicated.

The following have been the pastors of this church:

Rev. John Haines, Rueben Milner, Joseph B. Mitchell, J. P. Hunting, Adam Wilson, T. J. Randall, J. A. Harding, W. Cook, H. Roberts, H. H. Bishop, and E. S. Cotton, the present pastor.

UNIVERSALIST

This society was the first in town. Their house of worship was erected in 1801 and was the first in Maine. The first preacher was Rev. John Murray. In 1829 a new church was built. This was repaired and improved in 1892. The society observed its Centennial in 1901 with appropriate services which were well attended.

Following is the list of pastors:

John Murray, Thomas Barnes, B. B. Murray, Henry Hawkins, Luke P. Rand, T. J. Tenney, E. F. Quimby, John L. Stevens, Russell Streeter, D. T. Stevens, J. W. Ford, J. C. Snow, Selden Gilbert, Nathaniel Gunnison, L. H. Tabor, J. A. Seitz, W. W. Hooper, Miss Caroline E. Angell.

METHODIST

The first Methodist sermon preached in town was supposed to have been delivered by a Mr. Parker about 1812. Early meetings were held in Norway school-houses, but in 1837 a church was built about half way between the village and Steep Falls. A new church was built in Norway in 1879. In 1889 a vestry was built at a cost of $800.00. In 1897 repairs were made to the extent of $2500. Among the pastors there have been:

William Pingree, William Yates, Edward Whittle J. B. Lapham, Fred C. Rogers, E. W. Simons, George L. Burbank, O. H. Pellsbury, J. A. Carey, J. G. Ross, T. W. Smith, J. H. Roberts, F. Grovener, W. B. Eldridge, J. W. Lewis, and B. F. Fickett, the present pastor.

CONGREGATIONAL

The Congregational church was organized in due form at Norway in October, 1804. During the years of 1808 and 1809 their house of worship was built. About 1840 the church was rebuilt on the same site as the old one had been.

The second Congregational edifice was built in 1876, and destroyed in 1894 by fire. The present beautiful church was built and dedicated in 1895.

Pastors of the first Congregational church at Norway have been as follows:

Revs. N. Cressey, J. Walker, H. A. Merrill, Charles Soule, Charles Packard, H. W. Strong, H. Pratt, Nathaniel Richardson, P. B. Wilcox, J. L. Pratt, H. W. Pope, W. S. Moore, C. L. Mills, J. G. Wilson, A. H. Fuller, George Allechin.

The pastors of the second church are as follows:

Revs. A. T. Loring, P. B. Wilcox, A. H. Tyler, T. T. Merry, G. W. Kelley, U. S. Moore, E. E. Bacon, A. Wiswill, B. S. Rideout, the present pastor.

EPISCOPAL

Christ's Church was built at Norway village on Paris street, at a cost of about $2200 in 1897. This church has been prosperous and gives promise of being a strong instrument for good in the community. The pastors have been: Revs. M. H. Carroll and P. J. Fessenden.

Facts of Interest

The town of Norway presents to the observer to-day a picture of thrift and prosperity that is characteristic of only such towns as are inhabited by men of thrift, high ideals and healthy public spirit.

Its churches and schools are in very good condition. Its manufacturies, both steam and water-power, are busier than ever. The electric lamp lights the streets, stores and homes. There is a fine water system. The steam and electric railroads furnish excellent facilities for transportation. The numerous benevolent and social societies are making their several influences felt to a greater degree than ever.

The growth of this admirably situated and throughly beautiful Oxford town has been rapid, and today it ranks among the first towns of its size in this part of New England. Today, as in the past one of its most important industries is the shoe manufactory. The Radcliffe Shoe Co., and the Pine State Shoe Co., are the principle concerns in this line. The Radcliffe Shoe Co. was organized in 1872 as B. F. Spinney & Co. The Pine State Shoe Co., was started in 1894 under the name of E. E. Millett, a year later was changed to E. E. Millett & Co., and in February 1903, it was incorporated under the present name.

Another concern doing a large business is C. B. Cummings & Sons, who are engaged in several lines.

We would be glad to enumerate in detail the many industries had we space, but we have no opportunity. Among the things which cannot be omitted is that institution of influence in any community, the newspaper. In this, Norway has for many years been well favored. The following have been Norway's newspapers: The Observer, edited by A. Barton and W. E. Goodenow; The Politician, W. A. Evans; Village Spy, A. Barton; Oxford Oracle, George W. Millett; Journal of the Times, W. E. Goodenow. The Norway Advertiser was first published in 1844 by Ira Berry and Francis Blake, Jr. Through successive years this paper was passed down to the present day Advertiser, —one of the substantial county papers of Maine. It is now owned and edited by Fred W. Sanborn. Other papers in Norway have been: Oxford Democrat, Pine State News, Norway Messenger, Oxford Register and New Religion.

A disaster in Norway's History occurred in 1894, when "The Fire" destroyed approximately $300,000 of property. The fire broke out in the mill owned by C. B. Cummings & Sons, at about two o'clock p. m. on Wednesday May 9. The flames moved rapidly in an easterly direction from the mill which was situated on the further bank of the river, just back of the present Opera House. There were eighty-five stores and residences destroyed and one hundred families rendered homeless. There was about $140,000 insurance. Everything was taken on that side of the street to the river's edge save the houses owned and occupied by Dr. B. F. Bradbury, C. L. Hathaway, E. H. Brown, and S. S. Stearns to the lower primary schoolhouse. At this point the fire crossed the street and burned the homes of W. E. Foss, Sophia Davis, the David Andrew house and the J. R. Sanborn house. A tannery on the west side of the present electric railroad caught fire and the houses on the Main street were burned from this point to J. L. Horne's save George Holmes, H. L. Horne's and Luther Pike's. Here it is said, was a mile of solid fire. At eleven o'clock in the night another fire caught in a green house of the Norway Savings Bank, but was soon extinguished. The fight against the flames was heroic. Help was summoned from Lewiston, Portland Bethel, Mechanic Falls, and South Paris. Six and a half hours were required to get control of the flames.
